Specialising in Online Marketing' (f/m)

⁽²⁾ This translation has no legal status.

3. PROFILE OF SKILLS AND COMPETENCES
1. Competence area: 'Online marketing'

The media expert designs and manages online marketing projects autonomously. His/her tasks include the development of a marketing strategy, the selection of online channels (websites, social media channels, etc.) and the implementation of online marketing in the individual channels. Media experts use image processing programs, among other things, for this purpose. In addition to the client, colleagues or external partners from the fields of web development, text design etc. can act as project partners.

2. Competence area: 'Intrapreneurship'

The media expert is open to innovations in this professional field. Through ongoing observations, he/she informs himself/herself about the latest developments in the media industry and among competitors. He/she attends events with the purpose of learning more about his/her field and forming networks in the community. The media expert is actively involved in the development of the company.

3. Competence area: 'Customer advice and support'

The task of the media expert is to advise and support customers. Here he/she uses a rich repertoire of communication strategies and social skills. He/she deals with any possible conflicts, complaints, etc. independently. The media expert also carries out the business management tasks associated with the respective order independently, in particular cost accounting, the preparation of offers, invoicing and success monitoring. For this work, media experts use the corresponding software (e.g. a cost accounting program).

4. Competence area: 'Project management'

The media expert carries out tasks in the field of project management. He/she draws up a project plan independently and checks its fulfilment on an ongoing basis. If any events disrupt the project, he/she consults with those involved in the project in order to be able to initiate corrective measures. After project completion, media experts reflect on the project results and document their experiences for the future. This requires knowledge of project management (project management models and stages, standards, etc.). The media expert uses project management tools consistently and precisely. His/her strengths include a sense of responsibility, organisational ability, the ability to work in a team and structured methods. The reflection on the project in the company requires analytical and communicative skills.

5. Competence area: 'Concept development'

The media expert independently develops a concept for the implementation of the individual media projects. For this work, he/she analyses the customer requirements and, on this basis, defines the concrete goals and the necessary steps for the implementation of the project. He/she involves colleagues and any possible subcontractors in the concept development.

6. Competence area: 'Quality-oriented work'

The media expert carries out his/her work in accordance with the sector-specific and company's quality principles. He/she coordinates the implementation options with customer requirements, checks and evaluates the work results and processes, especially with regard to compliance with specifications (such as customer wishes, project budgets, time specifications, data protection guidelines, etc.), technical or graphic standards (system requirements for hardware and software, security regulations, etc.) and participates in feedback processes with the aim of maintaining or increasing customer satisfaction.

4. RANGE OF OCCUPATIONS ACCESSIBLE TO THE HOLDER OF THE CERTIFICATE ⁽³⁾

Range of occupations:

Employment including in advertising and multimedia agencies, advertising, marketing and PR departments of large companies and institutions and independently in his/her own agency

⁽³⁾ if applicable
